WE CAN'T CALL IT ENGLISH CHAMPAGNE!

Always looking to find more interesting English wines, we have been introduced to a new Sparkling wine from Marlow, Buckinghamshire, Harrow & Hope. Again, a lovely blend of Chardonnay, pinot noir and pinot meunier grown on flint rocks which are ideal for these vines. Difficult project as apparently, they have broken 2 Harrows while preparing the land for planting. Which is where they get their name from, and of course, the Hope to produce an amazing sparkling wine. I am sure that you will enjoy it as much as we do.

BORDEAUX

MARGAUX

For over 25 years I have enjoyed a close relationship with one of the world's best wines and its makers, from arguably the most famous wine area. Chateau Boyd Cantenac, is a Grand Cru Margaux and Lucien Guillemet is an internationally highly respected winemaker, who mixes tradition, modern winemaking and passion to develop his families wines. All of which are just a stone's throw from the £1000 a bottle, Premier Grand Cru Chateau Margaux.

The cream of the crop are Chateau Boyd Cantenac and Chateau Pouget - both Grand Cru classification. We have a small amount of the tiny vineyard Tour Massac (originally Latour Massac!!). For real value for money try the second wines, Antoine Pouget and Jacques Boyd-named after the founders.

Clos Maucaillou, who's vines are in an unclassified part of Margaux, enable Lucien to create a high quality, fruity and great value wine. Originally from Kilmarnock, Scotland, Jacques Boyd (James!) founded the Chateau in 1754. He was a relative of the Earl of Kilmarnock who was also a Boyd and my great great grandfather came from the Kilmarnock area. I don't doubt he was just a farm hand, but somewhere I am a proud relative of Jacques Boyd. The Chateau is an investor in this business.

Once or twice a year Lucien comes to Boyds to meet clients and show his wines, please let us know if you are interested.

We all hope you enjoy the wines we love so much.

Charles Boyd
